Alliant National Title Insurance Company Doubles Corporate Headquarters' Size

Additional personnel, company growth results in move to new offices

LONGMONT, Colo.—Alliant National Title Insurance Company, a unique title insurance underwriter that partners with Independent Agents to improve their competitive position in the marketplace, is pleased to announce that the Longmont, Colo., corporate headquarters are moving to larger offices effective Monday, November 7, 2011. Alliant National partners with over 180 Independent Agents across eight states. The new corporate offices will be located at 1831 Lefthand Circle, Suite G, Longmont, Colo., 80501.

In addition to added Independent Agents and corporate growth in 2010-2011, the company's corporate office staff expanded during the past year.

"This move is in keeping with our dedication to supporting our Independent Agents with the very best in underwriting and title insurance processes, personnel and procedures available," says Dave Ginger, Alliant National President. "We have enjoyed our original corporate offices for over six years and the time has come to provide greater resources for our Independent Agents and toward the larger Alliant National vision."

Alliant National's mission is to protect property owners' investment by providing secure title insurance delivered by the finest Independent Agents available. Alliant National provides a partnership environment with its agents that improves the accuracy, efficiency and timeliness of its products, while improving the knowledge base of its agents, and offering the best title products and services possible.

"Alliant National Title Insurance Company is a dynamic company that carefully and thoughtfully grows in size and geographic range," says Carol Mastrofini, Alliant National COO. "We look forward to further serving Alliant National's Independent Agents in the new, state-of-the-art offices."
